

AID Newsletter Subscription Service Terms and Conditions

1. Introduction

These terms and conditions were last updated on 25 January 2016 and replace all previous terms and conditions for the AID Newsletter. AID may update these terms and conditions for legal or regulatory reasons, or to reflect changes in our services or business practices. We will provide notice of such changes. If you are an AID Newsletter subscriber, any changes will become effective from the date of your next payment following the change unless we notify you otherwise. If you are not an AID Newsletter subscriber, any changes will become effective as soon as we notify you of them.

2. Access and Use

Our ability to invest in high quality journalism depends on our users complying with this Section 2.

In summary, unless you are a registered user you may not be permitted to view any articles.

Permitted Use: All AID Content belongs to AID or its licensors who own all intellectual property rights (including copyright and database rights) in the AID Content and any selection or arrangement of the AID Content. No intellectual property rights in any AID Content are transferred to you. "AID" and "AID Newsletter" are registered trade marks and you may not use them without written permission from AID. You may do the following:

- View AID Content for your personal use on any device that is compatible with eagleAID.com and store AID Content on that device for your personal use.
- Print the electronic edition on paper for your personal use.

On condition that you do not create a Substitute (as defined below), you may also do the following:

- Publish online, the original AID headline and a link to the AID article (on eagleAID.com) and the first 160 characters of an article.
- Forward the original AID headline and a link to the AID article (on eagleAID.com) and the first 160 characters of an article to other individuals.
- Download our RSS feeds and view them for your personal use in accordance with the terms.

We define a Substitute as a product or service that reduces the need for users or other third parties to pay for AID Content directly, or which creates revenue from the AID Content to the detriment of AID's own ability to generate revenues from that content.

As specified in the "Restrictions on Use" section below you may not republish or redistribute full text articles. You may however republish or redistribute "Summaries" of AID articles if you comply with the conditions set out below. "Summaries" can be either an “extract” or an “abstract”. By “extract” we mean 30 words copied verbatim from an AID article which are inserted into a longer original work . By “abstract” we mean a 30 word non-verbatim summary of the news or facts reported in an AID article which does not form part of a longer work.

These are the conditions you must comply with in order to produce summaries:

- you source AID as the author of any article from which you have derived a summary by way of an attribution such as “[journalist name] at the AID Newsletter reported that”, with a hypertext link from the word “AID Newsletter” to the original story published on EagleAID.com;
- in the case of abstracts, you make clear that the abstract has been produced by you by stating “this abstract from the AID Newsletter was produced by [name]”, with a hypertext link from the word “AID Newsletter” to the original story published on EagleAID.com;
- you ensure that your summaries do not in whole or in part form a Substitute for AID’s own products and services (see above for how we define Substitute). The more summaries you create the greater the risk of substitution. No individual or organisation may create, republish or redistribute more than ten summaries in aggregate each day, each one sourced from a different AID article that is published on the same day you create the summary;
- you do not use or create summaries that promote or endorse any product or service; and
- if AID notifies you that it believes you are creating, republishing or redistributing summaries outside of these parameters, you shall immediately cease doing so and your rights to create summaries shall be regarded as having been withdrawn, unless/until AID reaches an agreement with you regarding your use of AID articles.

Please note that these rights do not extend to content, data or other material published by AID that we licence from third parties (including photos, stock exchange or other indices providers) which you may not republish or redistribute in whole or in part.

PLEASE NOTE THAT IN ADDITION TO OUR RIGHTS AT LAW TO RESTRICT CERTAIN TYPES OF USE REFERRED TO IN THIS SECTION 2, THE RESTRICTIONS BELOW ARE ALSO CONTRACTUAL IN NATURE AND BIND ALL USERS OF EAGLEAID.COM.

Restrictions on Use: You cannot use EagleAID.com or the AID Content for any unlawful purpose or other than as set out in the “Permitted Use” section above, unless you buy the appropriate licence from us. By way of example only, this means that you cannot:

- if you are a registered user or subscriber or have a temporary access pass, you cannot share your user name and password with anyone else. A password is for one person’s use. Sharing a password means a copy of the AID Content may subsequently be made by someone who is not authorised to do so. Password sharing is a breach of our terms and conditions and is likely to result in an infringement of copyright. We monitor usage of EagleAID.com to detect password sharing.

- copy, publish, republish or redistribute, communicate or disseminate to third parties full text articles, photographs, graphics, tables or images in any way.
- copy, publish, republish or redistribute headlines in any way other than as permitted by the “Permitted Use” section above (including as part of any syndication, content aggregation, news aggregation, library, archive or similar service).
- archive or store any of the AID Content for access by anyone other than yourself.
- create derivative works from the AID Content, unless you are creating summaries as described in the “Permitted Use” section above.
- photocopy or scan copies of articles (to do this you need a licence from The Newspaper Licensing Agency).
- remove the copyright or trade mark notice from any copies of AID Content made under these terms and conditions.
- create a database in electronic or structured manual form by systematically and/or regularly downloading, caching, printing and storing all or any of the AID Content (by spidering or otherwise).
- frame, harvest or scrape the AID Content or otherwise access the AID Content for similar purposes.
- use or attempt to use the AID Content outside the parameters we set depending on what subscription you have.

Linking: If you would like to link to EagleAID.com, please read and comply with the following guidelines and all applicable laws. A site or service that links to EagleAID.com:

- may display an AID logo but must not otherwise use any AID trade marks without permission from AID;
- may not remove, distort or otherwise alter the size or appearance of the logo;
- may link to the homepage of EagleAID.com, may also link to other pages of EagleAID.com;
- must not in any way imply that AID is endorsing it or its products or services;
- must not misrepresent its relationship with AID or present false information about AID;
- must not be a site or service that infringes any intellectual property or other right of any person or that otherwise does not comply with all relevant laws and regulations;
- must not be a site or service that contains content that could be construed as distasteful or offensive.

3. Privacy Policy and Registration

All information received by you from your use of EagleAID.com will be used by AID in accordance with our Privacy Policy.

On registration, you must provide AID with accurate, complete registration information and it is your responsibility to update and maintain changes to that information on the applicable EagleAID.com registration or subscription pages or contact AID by email. AID is entitled to rely on any information you provide to us.

Each registration is for a single user only. On registration, you will be given a user name and password ("ID"). You are not allowed to share your ID or give access to AID Content through your ID to anyone else. AID does not allow multiple users on a network or within an organization without written permission to use the same ID. AID may cancel or suspend your access to EagleAID.com if you share your ID without further obligation to you. You may not create additional registration or subscription accounts for the benefit of others or with the aim of avoiding our use of IDs to control access to and use of EagleAID.com.

You are responsible for all use of EagleAID.com made by you or anyone else using your ID and for preventing unauthorised use of your ID. If you believe there has been any breach of security such as the disclosure, theft or unauthorised use of your ID or any payment information, you must notify AID immediately by e-mailing us at info@eagleAID.com.

If you provide AID with an email address that will result in any messages AID may send you being sent to you via a network or device operated or owned by a third party (e.g. your employer or college) then you promise that you are entitled to receive those messages. You also agree that AID may stop sending messages to you without notifying you.

7. Subscription Services and Temporary Access Passes

We currently offer one level of EagleAID.com subscription called Standard.
Contract formation: AID will try to process your subscription or temporary access pass promptly but does not guarantee that your subscription or temporary access pass will be activated by any specified time. By submitting your payment and other subscription details, you are making an offer to us to buy a subscription or temporary access pass. Your offer will only be accepted by us and a contract formed when we have successfully verified your payment details and email address, at which point we will provide you with access to your subscription or temporary access pass. AID reserves the right to reject any offer in its discretion, for any or no reason.

Payment details: when you subscribe or purchase a temporary access pass you must provide us with complete and accurate payment information. By submitting payment details you promise that you are entitled to purchase a subscription or temporary access pass using those payment details. If we do not receive payment authorization or any authorization is subsequently cancelled, we may immediately terminate or suspend your access to your subscription or temporary access pass and may in suspicious circumstances contact the issuing bank/payment provider and/or law enforcement authorities/other appropriate third parties. If you are entitled to a refund under these terms and conditions we will credit that refund to the card or other payment method you used to submit payment, unless it has expired in which case we will contact you.

Pricing: the subscription price and temporary access pass price will be made clear to you on our subscribe pages or otherwise during the sign-up process and may vary from time to time or by country. You agree to pay the fees at the rates notified to you at the time you take out your subscription or purchase your temporary access pass. For certain subscriptions you can take out either an annual or quarterly (or other frequency we offer) subscription. Other subscription services may only require a one-off payment. You can also take out any other fixed term or payment frequency that we may offer from time to time. AID will charge you in British Pounds Sterling, United States Dollars, or Euros, depending on the service and your country of residence. Eligibility for any discounts is ascertained at the time you subscribe and cannot be changed during the term of your subscription. We will always tell you in advance of any increase in the price of your subscription and offer you an opportunity to cancel it if you do not wish to pay the new price.

Pricing errors: if we incorrectly state a price to you whether online or otherwise, we are not obliged to provide you with a subscription or temporary access pass at that price, even if we have mistakenly accepted your offer to buy a subscription or temporary access pass at that price, and reserve the right to subsequently notify you of any pricing error. If we do this, you may cancel the subscription or temporary access pass without any obligation to us and we will refund you any money you have paid us in full or you may pay the correct price. If you refuse to exercise either of these choices then we may cancel your subscription or temporary access pass and will refund you any money you have paid us in full. We will always act in good faith in determining whether a genuine pricing error has occurred.

Other costs: in addition to any subscription or temporary access pass fees you pay, you are responsible for paying any internet connection or other telecommunications charges that you may incur by accessing EagleAID.com or using the services available on it. For example, if you use any of our mobile services then your network operator may charge you for data or messaging services.

Trials: we may from time to time and at our discretion make a trial available to users, in which case we will only charge you for your subscription with effect from the expiry of the trial period. No more than one trial per subscriber is allowed in any twelve month period.

Renewals: If you chose to pay annually, unless you notify us before the end of your annual subscription period that you no longer wish to receive it, your annual subscription will renew for another year. We will send a reminder towards the end of your subscription to remind you and ask if you wish to continue with the subscription. We will notify you in advance of any changes to the price in your subscription that will apply upon renewal.

Cancellations by you and refunds: unless you cancel your subscription before we have started providing any part of it to you (in which case we will provide you with a full refund), then you agree that once we have started providing any part of your subscription to you, you do not have any right to cancel your subscription or any part of it until the end of your then current subscription period. This means that you are not entitled to a refund once we have started providing any part of your subscription to you, except in the very limited circumstances which are referred to in these terms and conditions. Although you may notify us of your intention to cancel at any time, such notice will only take effect at the end of your then current subscription period. You may notify us of your wish to cancel your subscription by contacting our Customer Services team at subscriptions@eagleAID.com. Or alternatively, call + 44 (0)1926 410 040.

Moving address: if you have a subscription and are moving house, then we will transfer your newsletter delivery to your new address.

Cancellations by us: AID Limited reserves the right to suspend or terminate your subscription if you breach these terms and conditions, with or without notice and without further obligation to you. You will not be entitled to any refund in these circumstances. If however we terminate or suspend your subscription for any other reason and/or permanently cease publishing EagleAID.com, the AID Content or cease to provide subscription services then, unless there are exceptional circumstances, we will provide you with a pro rata refund to your credit card, which means that we will refund you with any amounts that you have paid us in advance that relate to any remaining and unexpired period of your subscription.

Newsletter delivery: AID will aim to commence delivery of the AID Newsletter at the next publication date of your subscription commencing. Any failure to commence delivery within the foregoing timescales will not constitute a breach of these terms and conditions by AID. Once delivery has commenced, the AID Newsletter will be delivered at every publication date (twice a month apart from January) at the one delivery address specified when your order was confirmed.

Who your subscription contract is with: if you buy an EagleAID.com subscription only or temporary access pass or other subscription service (i.e. EagleAID.com subscription and AID Report together), then you will be contracting with AID Limited, whose principal place of business is at 31 Cape Road, Warwick, CV34 4JP, United Kingdom.

8. Choice of Law and Jurisdiction

If you are a user whose principal address or principal use of EagleAID.com occurs in any jurisdiction other than the United States then these terms and conditions will be subject to English law. In this case, to the extent possible in the applicable jurisdiction, both you and we agree that the courts of England will (subject to the final paragraph in this Section 8) have non-exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute which may arise out of, under, or in connection with these terms and conditions.

If you are a user whose principal address or principal use of EagleAID.com occurs in the United States then these terms and conditions will be subject to the laws of the State of New York. In this case, to the extent possible in the applicable jurisdiction, both you and we agree that the courts of the State of New York will (subject to the final paragraph in this Section 8) have non-exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute which may arise out of, under, or in connection with these terms and conditions.

For the exclusive benefit of AID and to the extent possible in the applicable jurisdiction, AID will retain the right to bring or enforce proceedings as to the substance of the matter in the courts of the country of your residence or, where these terms and conditions are entered into in the course of your trade or profession, the country of the place of business in which you agreed to these terms and conditions or (if different) the country of your principal place of business.

9. General

You may not license or transfer any of your rights under these terms and conditions. We may transfer any of our rights or obligations under these terms and conditions to any company within the AID group of companies but if we do so we will ensure that any company to whom we transfer our rights or obligations will continue to honour your rights under them.

If any provision of these terms and conditions is found to be invalid by any court having competent jurisdiction, the invalidity of that provision will not affect the validity of the remaining provisions of these terms and conditions, which will remain in full force and effect.

Failure by either party to exercise any right or remedy under these terms and conditions does not constitute a waiver of that right or remedy. Headings in these terms and conditions are for convenience only and will have no legal meaning or effect.

EagleAID.com is best viewed with one of our supported browsers.

10. Corporate Information

Schmidt's Publications is the publisher of the AID Newsletter and the EagleAID.com website, and its corporate details are as follows: registered office address is 31 Cape Road, Warwick, CV34 4JP, United Kingdom; company number is 2545188; VAT number is 754 4668 01.

11. Changes to Terms and Conditions

These terms and conditions were published on 25 January 2016 and replace with immediate effect the terms and conditions previously published on 17 April 2012.